

Biden's sleight of hand to conflate sex with gender identity, so that men will be legally permitted to enter women's spaces is insult enough in a nation grounded on the general welfare. But to have our party undermine its own viability by aligning with the financial interests of the lobby for gender ideology, that is a heart breaking loss.

Yet we have been left to watch as the party we helped to build sacrifices its credibility on questions we seem much better prepared to address and of global concern, including war and peace, genocide and its prevention, catastrophic climate change and so much more.

In the face of these assaults on our families, on the rights of women and on our ability to protect our children, can we really allow Dr. Stein to tell Muslims she is neutral, while her campaign resources including your contributions are spent spreading a very different message?

As urgent as the genocide in Palestine remains, it is also important that we demand of the candidates that we would support that they respect our values and our concerns for our young. No one can be neutral on a moving train. Its time we demand that Jill Stein justify these actions in light of her prior statements that gender ideology is not 'a personal or campaign priority'.

Stein?

one message
for Muslims,
another for her Campaign

We are all grateful to hear a potentially ballot qualified candidate for President of the United States acknowledge the plausible genocide unfolding on our screens.

But it is important to understand where Dr. Stein's loyalties lie. While only Allah may know her heart, we have eyes to see and may evaluate this candidate based not only on her rhetoric, but also on her actions.

At a masjid in Maryland after a February Jummah service, when asked by a congregational leader about her thoughts on gender ideology Dr. Stein assured that Muslim crowd that there exists division within the Green Party on the question, and that engaging on this issue is not a personal or campaign priority for her.

But while she tells Muslims one thing, she's telling her campaign lists something entirely different.

- On February 27th, her campaign manager signed a message to her list, under her letterhead, railing about 500 bills seeking to protect your children, which her campaign without reading them characterized as 'anti-trans', and as a setup for an appeal to support the Trevor Project, characterized by one investigative journalist as a predator's paradise.

- In an email on March 8th, recognized by the United Nations as International Womens Day, her campaign message made a nod to gender ideology by stating that men who claim a "trans (identity as) women also face widespread discrimination and injustice". Perhaps, but why in an IWD message?

- On April 1st, the Georgia Green Party published a report on their meeting with Stein campaign staff, stating that the Stein campaign intended to conduct a ballot access drive as an independent, choosing deliberately to NOT collaborate with the Georgia Green Party. They acknowledged that they were choosing this strategy after consultation with the national party's transgender caucus and because the Georgia Green Party amended its Platform in 2020 to endorse the Declaration on Women's Sex-Based Rights.

- On April 4th, the Green Alliance for Sex-Based Rights published a release entitled, "Stein Campaign Confirms its Capture by Gender Ideology and Sex Denialism", elaborating on the Georgia Green Party statement and providing historical context to the ideological capture by gender ideology of the Green Party of the United States.

- On April 9th, the Green Party of the United States celebrated 'Trans Day of Visibility' by demanding "(s)upport for LGBTQIA+ friendly K-12 educational materials".

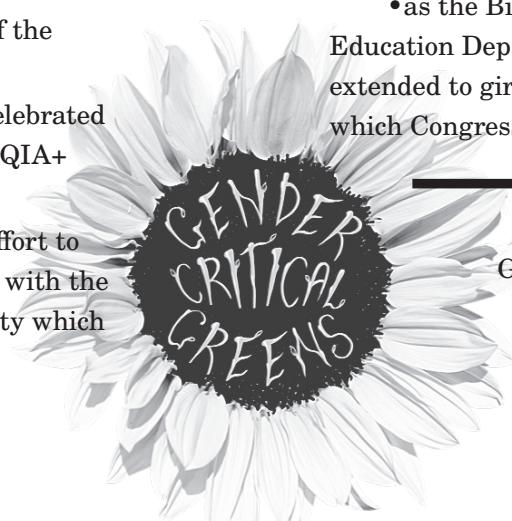

- Then also in April, the Stein campaign initiated an effort to organize as a Unity Greens Party, seeking to build in unity with the transgender caucus to the exclusion the Georgia Green Party which had taken a stand for the rights of women and children.

For muslims at this event, for parents who recognize the threat posed by gender ideology, we have the sunna of the Prophet, pbuh, made known to us in the Hadith of the Effeminate Man that respecting the human rights of Hit did not involve permitting him entry to women's spaces, or the response by Rasul'Allah to a Companion's repeated question, which of our parents should we honor more, three times answered your Mother before responding your Father once.

We have His servants in the present day, including Shaykh Dr. Yasir Qahdi who crafted the Fatwa on Transgenderism published by the Fiqe Council of North America providing compassionate guidance for families at risk to losing their children to the TQ+ cult. We have the "Navigating Differences" document on "Clarifying Sexual and Gender Ethics in Islam", signed by the Imam's and scholars of many local congregations. We have the Quran itself which reminds us that "We created you from a male and a female".

Is Dr. Stein actually neutral on questions of gender ideology, and in the face of

- the Cass Review's Final Report on the medical experimentation on children,
- as the UK NHS discontinues use of puberty blockers
- for which our own US FDA now requires warning labels,
- as activists use our tax dollars to teach impressionable young people in public schools the pseudo-science of gender ideology,
- as the Biden Administration only this past week in its Education Department's Final Rule, rolls back the protections extended to girls and women attending federally funded schools which Congress intended, in its adoption of Title IX?
